

Candidate Bios

Diana Bishop-Pecha is a retired U.S. Air Force cybersecurity officer, who currently works in the aerospace and defense industry. She volunteers her time as an affiliate practice scholar with the University of Pittsburgh Institute of Cyber Law, Practice and Security. During her tenure in the Air Force, Diana served three command tours and led deployed tactical missions in both the Pacific arena and the Middle East. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science and Engineering, has a Master's degree in Information Technology Management, and graduated from Carnegie Mellon University's Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) and Chief Risk Officer (CRO) executive education and certificate programs. Diana is the proud mother of Naomi and Matt, both married and living in Chicago and Austin, respectively. She is an extremely proud first-time grandmother to grandson, Atticus. Diana is married to Keith, a retired Army officer, and they make their home in South Tampa.

Tim Burke is digital chair of the League of Women Voters of Hillsborough and Pasco Counties. He is a journalist and president of Burke Communications, a media consulting firm focused on local news startups. Previously, he served as Director of Video at Deadspin and The Daily Beast. In addition to serving on the League board, he is president of the Old Seminole Heights Neighborhood Association, serves on the board of Jobsite Theater, and is a volunteer with Tampa Bay Beagle Rescue.

Sally Wilson has worked most of her adult life in the medical/insurance business, but was also able to stay at home to raise her children. Born and raised in Tulsa, Oklahoma, she came to Florida on a temporary basis which is now been 50 years. She has two children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren that fill her life with joy every day. She joined the League in 2018 because she wanted to work on issues that lift up women to have respect, confidence and love for themselves. She has gained so much more than she expected, has made wonderful friends and has had lots of good experiences.

Norín Dollard is a Senior Policy Analyst focused on early learning and education and KIDS COUNT Director with the Florida Policy Institute. She has more than 30 years of health services research and evaluation experience in Florida and New York, in the area of behavioral health needs of children and families across child-serving systems. She has served as Florida's KIDS COUNT Director since 2015, sponsored by the Annie E. Casey Foundation. In this role, she leverages her experience with large administrative data sets to inform child and family policy with data. Norín holds a Doctorate in Education from the University of South Florida and a Master's of Public Administration from the University at Albany - State University of New York.